

Free tips for your career

Why Network?

- The most effective method for securing your next full-time role is through networking and receiving referrals within your professional circles.
- The majority of job openings are not publicly advertised, constituting what's often referred to as "the hidden job market" so prioritise networking over online database searches

Resume tips

- Employers are inundated with a high volume of resumes. To sift through resumes and profiles on platforms like LinkedIn®, employers commonly employ keyword searches.
- It is vital to incorporate relevant keywords in your resume that align with the job description and qualifications

Create an Elevator Pitch

- Your elevator pitch serves as a vital networking tool, offering a concise overview of your skills, education, experience, and achievements. It's designed to be delivered naturally and conversationally
- Crafting an elevator pitch involves providing enough information about yourself to give the listener a sense of the value you can bring to an organisation, while also piquing their interest to learn more about you
